CHAPTER I: RACES

GNOLL

Additional information on Gnolls can be found in the Monster Manual (p. 162), and Volo's Guide to Monsters (VGtM 33-39).

GNOLL TRAITS

You share some traits in common with all Gnolls.

Ability Score Increase. Your Strength score increases by 2, your Dexterity score increases by 1, and your Intelligence score is reduced by 2.

Size. Gnolls are usually around 200 pounds and stand with a stooped posture at around 6 feet tall. Your size is Medium.

Age. Gnolls mature almost instantly from hyenas by using magic rituals and rarely live more than 20 years.

Alignment. Most Gnolls are Chaotic Evil, though some rare Gnolls who leave their pack do so because their alignment is different than that of their pack or leader. However, a gnoll that is either Good or Lawful is completely unheard of.

Speed. Your base walking speed is 30 feet.

Bite. You are never truly unarmed. Your fangs can be used to make unarmed strikes, dealing an amount of damage equal to 1d4 piercing damage + your Strength modifier on a hit, instead of the normal bludgeoning damage.

Rampage. When you reduce the creature to 0 hit points with a melee attack on your turn, you can take a bonus action to move up to half your speed and make a bite attack.

Darkvision. Darkvision. As a gnoll, you have superior vision in dark and dim conditions. You can see in dim light within 60 feet as if you were in bright light, and in darkness as if it were in dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Gnoll Gear. You are proficient in light and medium armor, as well as shortbows and longbows.

War Band Skills. You have proficiency in two from Constitution saving throws, Dexterity saving throws, and Wisdom saving throws, Perception, and Stealth.

Languages. You can speak Gnoll fluently, and can poorly speak, read, and write Common.

HALF-DWARF

A half-dwarf is the unusual offspring of a human and a dwarf. Half-dwarves look short, stocky, and ugly to most humans, but tall and lanky to dwarves. Though some may pass themselves off as a dwarf to a human or a human to a dwarf while traveling in places where people are typically exposed to folk of only one race, it takes little scrutiny of the appearance and behavior of a half-dwarf to set them apart from either.

CAPABLE LONERS

Maturing slower than humans but faster than dwarves, half-dwarves typically have few childhood friends. Though not necessarily disliked by either dwarves or humans, both humans and dwarves may work alongside half-dwarves, but few tend to share close bonds with them. As a result, half-dwarves tend toward social isolation, and more readily form bonds of industry than intimate ones such as in family or friendship. However, the aspirational spirit of humans combined with the industrious nature of dwarves leads half-dwarves to dream about achieving great things and lends them the confidence to personally take on seemingly monumental tasks.

SOLOHARDY YET RELIABLE

Young half-dwarves often feel they have something to prove, but need the opportunity to show it. When an Orcish raiding party floods out of the hills, or a dragon swoops down on the town, a half-dwarf is likely to spring into action before others can hardly react, protecting children, the weak, and downtrodden — people like themselves who may be forgotten by most — when catastrophe strikes. Though they may bite off more than they can chew and appear to dislike people, a half-dwarf is among the last to leave someone behind, and among the most loyal of friends once they feel truly accepted.

HALF-DWARF TRAITS

Your half-dwarf character shares some traits in common with both dwarves and humans.

Ability Score Increase. Your Constitution score increases by 1, and one other ability score increases by 1.

Age. Half-dwarves mature in their 30s and live well over 100 years.

Alignment. Half-dwarves lean towards goodness, but may not tend as strongly to lawfulness (due to a lack of acceptance by most dwarves) or towards chaos due to their dwarven nature.

Size. Half-dwarves stand around 5 feet tall and average about 160 pounds. Your size is Medium.

Speed. Your base walking speed is 30 feet. Your speed is not reduced by wearing heavy armor.

Darkvision. Many millennia of dwarven history grant you superior vision in dark and dim conditions. You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Dwarven Ancestry. You have advantage on saving throws against poison, and you have resistance against poison damage.

Stalwart. You have advantage on saving throws against being frightened.

Skill Versatility. You are proficient in one skill and one type of artisan tools of your choice.

Languages. You can speak, read, and write Common, Dwarf, and one other language.

Subrace. Two main distinctions exist for half-dwarves: those who are half hill dwarf, and those who are half mountain dwarf.

HALF HILL DWARF

You have certain traits derived from your hill dwarf ancestry.

Ability Score Increase. Your Wisdom score increases by 1.

Dwarven Toughness. Your hit point maximum increases by half your level (minimum 1).

HALF MOUNTAIN DWARF

You have additional traits that come from being half mountain dwarf.

Ability Score Increase. Your Strength score increases by 1.

Dwarven Sturdiness. You have proficiency with light and medium armor.

DWELF

A dwelf is the rare result of what happens when a dwarf and an elf bear a child together.

ELVEN GRACE, DWARVEN STURDINESS

Combining many of the features of both dwarves and elves, the dwelfen build tends to be broader and more muscular than elves, but carried with a posture more graceful than dwarves. Though few would call any dwelf handsome, they may have facial features such as beautiful, colorful eyes and far smoother skin than most dwarves. Though their men may be almost as hairy as some dwarves, female dwarves are no more hairy than humans.

DWARF AND ELF — YET NEITHER

Dwelves are both living proof of a chance for harmony between different folk as well as a reminder to traditionalists that represent the threat of change and the weakening of bloodlines. Dwelves tend to find Dwarven life too stiflingly, and elven life too unstructured. This in addition to rarely being accepted by family tends to lead them to wish to leave home at a very young age and to value friendship and self-sufficiency over racial ties. Dwelves commonly find friendship with humans, halflings, gnomes, and other races more easily than they do other dwarves or elves, which can draw them to seek wanderlust on their own or find a position as being treated as an unbiased problem-solver among conflicting parties — as long as those parties aren't dwarves or elves.

DWELF TRAITS

Your Dwelf character shares some traits in common with elves and dwarves.

Ability Score Increase. Your Dexterity and Constitution scores each increase by 1.

Age. A dwelf matures at around the age of 75, and may live to be as old as 500.

Alignment. Too restrained for dwarves and requiring more order than elves, dwelves rarely tend towards lawful nor chaotic alignments. Dwelves lean towards good from both of their bloodlines, unless they come from the rarer grey dwarf or dark elf varieties, pulling them towards true neutrality or evil.

Size. Dwelves stand around 5 feet tall and average about 140 pounds. Your size is Medium.

Speed. Your base walking speed is 30 feet.

Darkvision. Many millennia of elven and dwarven history grant you superior vision in dark and dim conditions. You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You can't discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Dwarven Ancestry. You have advantage on saving throws against poison, and you have resistance against poison damage.

Fey Ancestry. You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed, and magic can't put you to sleep.

Languages. You can speak, read, and write Common, Dwarf, and Elf, and one other language.

Subraces. Every Dwelf has traits from both their dwarven and their elven bloodline. You chose one subrace from Dwarven Subraces and one subrace from Elven Subraces.

Your dwarven heritage may or may not express its subracial properties in a distinct way.

DWARF

You are of mixed dwarven heritage as well as being part elf.

Ability Score Increase. Your Constitution score increases by 1.

Sturdy. Your speed is not reduced by wearing heavy armor.

HILL DWARF

At your DM's discretion, you may also take the innately paired skills of Sunlight Sensitivity and Superior Darkvision:
