

TIEFLING

Descendants of ancient and powerful fiends, a Tiefling's bloodline is forever tied to their devil, demon, or other malevolent creator from of the Lower Planes. This heritage pulses within them, a constant reminder of their otherworldly origins and the latent power it grants. Yet, despite this dark connection, a tiefling's soul remains unbound—free from the moral constraints of their ancestry. They are neither doomed to wickedness nor destined for greatness, but rather shaped by the choices they make in defiance of their lineage.

Though many tieflings bear the physical marks of their ancestry—horns, tails, or eyes that gleam like embers—their true nature lies in their actions. Some may rise as tyrants, reveling in the fear their presence inspires, while others become champions of the downtrodden, proving that even a soul touched by darkness can seek the light.

Tiefling Traits

Creature Type: Fiend

Size: Small or Medium

Speed: 30 feet

As an Tiefling, you have these special traits.

Darkvision. You have Darkvision with a range of 60 feet.

Fiendish. Select an additional common or rare language proficiency. Most but not all tieflings would select Infernal, the language of devils or abyssal, the language of demons, as their additional language proficiency.

Fiendish Legacy. Tieflings originate from the Lower Planes or trace their lineage to fiendish ancestors born there. Their bloodlines are often tied to demon lords, devil nobility, or yugoloth generals. This fiendish legacy bestows supernatural abilities but does not dictate the tiefling's moral character. As a tiefling, you inherited this legacy, granting you unique powers rooted in your chthonic, demonic, or infernal heritage.

Abyssal Tieflings

The madness of Pandemonium, the despair of Carceri, or the chaos of the Abyss are the plains from which the abyssal tieflings trace their lineage. These tieflings often bear horns, fur, tusks, or strange scents—traits tied to the demonic blood that flows in their veins.

Gaping Maw Legacy

The 88th layer of the Abyss is a thick jungle teeming with demons and dinosaurs. At its center lies a vast inland sea of crimson brine, which drains into a colossal whirlpool known as the Gaping Maw. Perched atop a grim promontory overlooking the whirlpool stands Absym, the twin-spired palace of the Demogorgon.

The Demogorgon, a two-headed demon prince, rules multiple Abyssal layers but claims the Gaping Maw as his home. A symbol of chaos and madness, he seeks the corruption of all existence. Though a fearsome warrior, his true mastery lies in arcane magic and bioengineering, having created horrors like the ettin and chimera.

Tieflings of his lineage may bear reptilian scales, bestial fur, or even twin heads, their twisted forms reflecting his vile influence. As a decedent of the Gaping Maw, you have the following special traits.

Gaping Maw Legacy Magic. Select a Cantrip from the Gaping Maw Legacy Magic table. At 3rd level, do so again for a 1st level spell and again at 5th level for a 2nd level spell.

Gaping Maw Legacy Magic

Cantrips	1st Level Spells	2nd level Spells
Minor Image	Detect Magic	Alter Self
Prestidigitation	Cause Fear	Levitate
Thaumaturgy	Silent Image	Ray of Enfeeblement

Once you cast a spell with this trait, you cannot cast that spell again until you finish a Long Rest; however, you may cast that spell using spell slots you have of the appropriate level.

Intelligence, Wisdom, or Charisma is your spellcasting modifier for spells you cast with this trait (select this when you create your character).

Resistance. You are Resistant to Poison damage.

Tail Whip. As a Bonus Action you can use your tail to lash out at an adjacent creature dealing 1d4 Slashing damage to them on a successful hit.

At 5th level, the damage of your Tail Whip increases by one step (1d6) and gains the magic property. At 11th level it increases one additional step (1d8), then again at 17th level (1d10).

Steaming Fen Legacy

The 14th layer of the Abyss, the Steaming Fen, is a desolate wasteland—a lifeless brine bog broken only by jagged peaks rising from its depths. This inhospitable realm is ruled by two demon lords: the Queen of Chaos, an obyrith who dwells in her labyrinthine fortress, Djimadorad, and her consort, Miska the Wolf-Spider, who remains imprisoned in Pandemonium. Their offspring, the spyder-fiends—grotesque wolf-headed spiders—serve as the layer's guardians and army.

Tieflings tied to this legacy often have blue, purple, or gray skin, adorned with spider or octopus-like patterns. Some bear subtle mutations, such as tiny hooks or webbing between their fingers and toes, reflecting their fiendish heritage. As a decedent of the Steaming Fen, you have the following special traits.

Decendant of the Steaming Fen. You have a Climb and Swim Speed equal to half your Speed.
Resistance. Choose one damage type between Acid or Poison. You are resistant to damage of the chosen type.

Steaming Fen Legacy Magic. Select a Cantrip from the Steaming Fen Legacy Magic table. At 3rd level, do so again for a 1st level spell and again at 5th level for a 2nd level spell.

Steaming Fen Legacy Magic

Shape Water	Ensnaring Strike	Darkness
Thorn Whip	Entangle	Web

Once you cast a spell with this trait, you cannot cast that spell again until you finish a Long Rest; however, you may cast that spell using spell slots you have of the appropriate level.

Intelligence, Wisdom, or Charisma is your spellcasting modifier for spells you cast with this trait (select this when you create your character).

Chthonic Tieflings

Tieflings with the chthonic legacy are drawn not only to the oppressive pull of Carceri but also to the insatiable greed of Gehenna and the somber despair of the Gray Waste. Their yugoloth ancestry gives members of this legacy a wide range skin tones, completions, and body features.

Arcanaloth Legacy

You are a descendant of an arcanaloth, an upper caste jackal or dog humanoid yugoloth who are completely covered in fur. Arcanaloths are renown for their arcane power, silver tongues, and business acumen.

Through the years most tieflings of this legacy have lost much of their arcanaloth appearance, though a few still have dog-like ears or bushy jackal tails. As a tiefling with the Arcanaloth Legacy, you have these special traits.

Arcanaloth Magic. Select a Cantrip from the Arcanaloth Legacy Magic table. At 3rd level, do so again for a 1st level spell and again at 5th level for a 2nd level spell.

After finishing a Long Rest, you can replace one spell gained from this trait with a different spell of the same level. The new spell must be on the Arcanaloth Magic table below.

Arcanaloth Legacy Magic

Cantrips	1st Level Spells	2nd level Spells
Mage Hand	Detect Magic	Detect Thoughts
Minor Illusion	Identify	Mirror Image
Prestidigitation	Floating Disk	Suggestion

Once you cast a spell with this trait, you cannot cast that spell again until you finish a Long Rest; however, you may cast that spell using spell slots you have of the appropriate level.

Intelligence, Wisdom, or Charisma is your spellcasting modifier for spells you cast with this trait (select this when you create your character).

Damage Resistance. Choose one damage type between Acid or Poison. You are resistant to damage of the chosen type.

Magic Resistance. Once per Long Rest when you make a Saving Throw against spells or other magical effects, do so at Advantage.

Teleport. As a Bonus Action, you can teleport up to 30 feet to any unoccupied space you can see. You can use this trait a number of times equal to your Proficiency Bonus, regaining all expended charges when you finish a Long Rest.

Nycaloth Legacy

You are a descendant of a nycaloth, a winged yugoloth of the upper caste known for their fierce battle prowess.

All tieflings with a nycaloth legacy have large bat wings, though they are not as large or as powerful as those of their progenitors. Yellow-green to emerald green skin is common among tieflings of this legacy as well, as are their distinct long and straight oryx-like horns. As a tiefling with the Nycaloth Legacy, you have these special traits.

Damage Resistance. Choose one damage type between Acid or Poison. You are Resistant to damage of the chosen type.

Fiendish Wounds. When you hit a wounded target with an attack, you can use your Bonus Action to deal an extra 1d4 weapon or spell damage. You can use this trait a number of times equal to your Proficiency Bonus, regaining all expended charges when you finish a Long Rest.

The damage increases by 1d4 when you reach level 5 (2d4), 9 (3d4), 11 (4d4), and 17 (5d4).

Limited Flight. When you reach level 5, the connection to your legacy grows powerful enough to allow you to fly. You have a Fly Speed equal to your Speed, but you must land at the end of your movement. You can use this trait a number of times equal to your Proficiency Bonus, regaining one expended charge when you finish a Short Rest and all expended charges when you finish a Long Rest.

Telepathic. You can communicate Telepathically within 60 feet. Creatures you communicate telepathically with do not automatically understand you unless you both speak at least one shared language.

Infernal Tieflings

While the infernal legacy links tieflings to Gehenna, the Nine Hells, and the war-torn battlefields of Acheron, most of them trace their lineage back to the Nine Hells. Common physical traits among these tieflings include horns, spines, tails, golden eyes, and a faint scent of sulfur or smoke. The most common skin colors for tieflings of this legacy are crimson red, azure blue, ashen gray, or midnight black.

Maladomini Legacy

The crumbling realm of Maladomini, the seventh circle of Hell, is ruled by Baalzebul, known as both the Lord of Flies and the Slug Prince. Ever seeking perfection, he has ransacked his world to build ever more grand cities that he lets crumble to ruin soon after completion. Under the world's black sun and sky, he crafts ever more cunning plans to overthrow Mephistopheles and take revenge upon Asmodeus who cursed him.

As a tiefling of the Maladomini legacy, you are a descendant of Baalzebul, one of his generals, or one of the more powerful devils that reside there; granting you the following special traits.

Damage Resistance. Choose one damage type between Fire or Poison. You are resistant to damage of the chosen type.

Maladomini Legacy Magic. Select a Cantrip from the Maladomini Legacy Magic table. At 3rd level, do so again for a 1st level spell and again at 5th level for a 2nd level spell.

Maladomini Legacy Magic

Cantrips	1st Level Spells	2nd level Spells

Thaumaturgy	Ray of Sickness	Suggestion

Once you cast a spell with this trait, you cannot cast that spell again until you finish a Long Rest; however, you may cast that spell using spell slots you have of the appropriate level.

Intelligence, Wisdom, or Charisma is your spellcasting modifier for spells you cast with this trait (select this when you create your character).

Hellish Regeneration. Once per Long Rest as a Bonus Action, you tap into your legacy to give yourself a form of regeneration. For a number of rounds equal to your Proficiency Bonus; at the beginning of your turn you heal a number of Hit Points equal to your Proficiency Bonus. This trait ends if you gain the Unconscious Condition.

Nessus Legacy

Nessus, the 9th and lowest layer of Hell, is ruled by Asmodeus, one of the multiverse's most powerful beings. From his grand fortress, Malsheem, the Lord of Lies commands the Nine Hells. The layer itself is a stark, crimson wasteland broken only by fathomless chasms, floating in an endless red sky wracked by perpetual firestorms.

The inhabitants of Nessus are Asmodeus's elite forces—generals and commanders born from his blood after his fall from heaven. Among them are amnizus, pit fiends, and cornugons, each formidable devils in their own right. It is from these greater devils, or perhaps Asmodeus himself, that you trace your infernal heritage, granting you unique traits.

Child of Fire. You are resistant to Fire damage.

Additionally, if you make an attack or cast a spell that does Fire damage, increase that damage by an amount equal to your Proficiency Bonus.

Nessus Legacy Magic. Select a Cantrip from the Nessus Legacy Magic table. At 3rd level, do so again for a 1st level spell and again at 5th level for a 2nd level spell.
